Research conducted to update and expand the ERIC/CRESS Native Education Directory: Organizations and Resources for Educators of Native Americans produced the following list of colleges and universities offering courses in various native North American languages. This list is probably not complete; staff contacted over 400 institutions that had substantial numbers of American Indian or Alaska Native students. The institutions were contacted only once; some did not respond. If readers know of other programs, please contact the author at the above address.

Each institution's admissions office was contacted unless staff were aware of a Native studies program or other likely source of information. Thus, the contact information listed below is usually the admissions office for the college or university described. The directory, which includes all of this information as well as information about other advocacy, research, publishing, and government organizations involved in American Indian and Alaska Native education, will be available November 1, 1996, from ERIC/CRESS for $12.
